The telephone rang in a Salt Lake ception, eminently, practicable and benevolent and furnishes an example that other rich families would do well to follow.

The telephone rang in a Salt Lake restaurant a few days ago and when the proprietor answered a woman's voice announced that she had left her umbrella in the place a few hours previous. "Is it there?" she asked. "Til see," replied the proprietor. Then picking up an umbrella which stood against the wall by him he held it in front of the telephone and inquired: "Is this it?" It proved to be it. has been the ruler of the Russias for ception, eminently, practicable and tles that have been practiced by his of-Christian would have done years ago. | IT IS ANNOUNCED that a process has form of punishment is really an alleviation of the tortures of Russian prisons. It is said by prison authorities that one cannot appreciate what solltary confinement means until it is experienced. Think what 100 days of such treatment would be. Imagine intelligence. To them the castigation as away with his reason, would be kind. less trying to them, They could and would sleep a great part of the time, and having but little to occupy their thoughts at any time, would likely come out of the dungeon in physical and mental condition almost as good as when they went in. Thus to one class of the czar's prisoners the change may mean amelioration of punishment, while to another it means torture infinitely greater. The matter of punishnent having been left to the local authorities is a strong indication that the intelligent convicts will get the coninement and the ignorant ones the birch reed lashings. The czar's jailers may be trusted to do their utmost to make each man's punishment as heavy as possible.

Sust what has inspired the czar to the saction at this time is not if he hopes to secure combinated people he will be expointed. He is doubly censurable, first for not abolishing the cruel and murderous castigation years ago, and second for not abolishing with it solitary confinement with its attendant borrors. Russia is still in the dark ages, and the man who sits on its throng has yet to show that he is it touch with modern humanity and civilization.

A most beautifully appointed affair was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. George M. Downey at which Mrs. Thomas B. Davis was the guest of honor. The guests were seated at one long table, and the decorations of pink and white were most artistic. A centerpiece of pink and white carnations was banked with a wealth of green, and through this were seen tiny pink and white flowers carrying out the color design. At either end of the table, sweet peas in the two colors were used, and at each place was a card bearing the monogram of the bride. The other guests of the affair were Mrs. Harkness, Mrs. Glendinning, Mrs. George Tuttle of St. Louis, Mrs. H. D. Styer.
